I have loved art from the time I could remember. I was raised in New York forty five minutes outside of Manhattan. During my teen years I would take the train into Manhattan and then the bus to The Metropolitan Museum of Art. I enjoyed sketching from the sculptures at the Met. As a child I traveled all over Western Europe, Spain, France, Italy, Germany, Austria, experiencing art history first hand. I have family in Italy so every summer and winter vacation from school I would spend in Italy. In the winters I would ski in the French and Italian Alps. In the summer I would hang out in the Italian countryside riding horses and experiencing Italian culture first hand. I have Bachelors of Fine Art from Purchase College in Purchase New York. During my last year of my Undergraduate Degree I studied abroad at Lorenzo de' Medici, The Italian International Institute and the same school that Leonardo Da Vinci studied at. While at Lorenzo de' Medici I took classes in PinHole Photography, History of Italian Costume in Painting, Italian Language, and Intaglio and Aquatinting Printmaking. I believe that the time I spent in Western Europe while growing up has had a strong influence on my style, what I create, and my color pallet. As a child when someone would ask me what I wanted to be when I grew up I would say a famous artist, that is still true today. I never could decide on a favorite medium. Oil painting was my first love but over the years that has changed. I love photography, wood burning, drawing, mixed media collage, watercolor painting, and Gelli printing. I have been an art teacher for eighteen years and enjoy sharing my passion for art and creating something from nothing with my students.

I moved to North Carolina in 2007. I enjoy tent camping, hiking, and being outdoors. Landscapes are my favorite subject to paint and draw. I am just as creative in the kitchen with cooking as baking as I am with the visual arts and designing lesson plans for my students. I love to create my own recipes and experiment with creating different types of food. My favorite food is traditional Indian Food. When I retire from teaching I plan to live in Boone NC in a small log cabin overlooking a creek with a view of the mountains. Eventually I would like to become an art therapist and have my own practice in Boone when I retire from teaching. I will be starting my graduate degree and my journey towards becoming an art therapist this coming summer.
